

Author Biography

Chris Robinson

Chris Robinson is author of the new book, Making Our Own Kind of Music. He is the Founder and President of the Foundation for Music and Healing, Inc., a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing music and movement to extraordinary people who have special needs. Dr. Robinson researches and develops innovative techniques to more effectively involve students who have special needs in music and movement activities. A native of Moscow, Idaho, Dr. Robinson holds a bachelor of arts degree from Eastern Washington University and a master of arts from the University of Denver. He earned a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Notre Dame. A long-time musician and educator, he has served in numerous managerial and administrative capacities in college, hospital, government and business settings. Dr. Robinson is a member of the local, state and national chapters of the Music Teachers National Association, and the American Music therapy Association. He currently maintains music and art studios in South Bend, Indiana, and works with client families throughout the region. He enjoys a wide variety of music styles. Dr.

Robinson may be reached at:

www.musichealing.org

Telephone (574) 993-2093